Program

Janet Wu, Emcee

Janet Wu has been a general assignment reporter and anchor on 7NEWS since 1996. A published writer, she is also a lecturer at colleges and universities in and around Boston. Janet works closely with a number of local non-profit organizations that address issues close to her heart. She holds a bachelors degree from Yale University, and earned her masters degree at Columbia University's Graduate Schools of Journalism and International Affairs. Wu is currently a candidate for a second masters degree in literature and creative writing at Harvard University.

Keynote: Yolanda Taylor

Yolanda Taylor, a COMPASS for kids Board Member and a retired portfolio manager at Fidelity Select Brokerage and Investment Management Portfolio, has recently published her memoir, Take Me Back to Redway. This poignant work in part recounts her childhood experiences of homelessness. Take Me Back to Redway juxtaposes the challenges Yolanda's single father and she faced with the substantially different, and somewhat surprising challenges she is facing raising her four young children with her husband in Lexington, MA.

COMPASS for kids provides education and support that improves the skills and transforms the perspectives of the adults and institutions that matter most to children.

COMPASS for homeless families is a program of COMPASS for kids that works to end family homelessness. We collaborate with public and private organizations, businesses and individuals to provide high impact services and supports that promote family self-sufficiency and stability in housing for homeless and at-risk children and their families.
